

Justice on Trial: Neurodiversity and Inclusion in UK Law

Taz Brookes (LLB, LPC, LLM), PhD Researcher,
Birkbeck, University of London ©

Your Voice Can Shape the Future of Law and Inclusion

I'm conducting a PhD study at Birkbeck, University of London, exploring how neurodivergent people experience fairness, discrimination, and inclusion within or in connection to the UK legal system — including workplaces, education, tribunals, and professional regulation.

This is a first-of-its-kind study in the UK, directly connecting neurodiversity, anti-discrimination law, and lived experience. It aims to amplify voices that too often go unheard — turning personal experiences into evidence for real change.

Why This Research Matters

This study puts lived experience at the heart of change — revealing where the law supports neurodivergent people, where it falls short, and how it can do better.

It's more than research — it's a shared step toward justice and inclusion. Your story matters. Your experience has power.

Ethics, Consent, and Contact

You'll receive a Participant Information Sheet, a Quick Access Data Handling Summary, and a Consent Form before taking part. You can withdraw at any time without giving a reason.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Taz Brookes

tbrook06@student.bbk.ac.uk

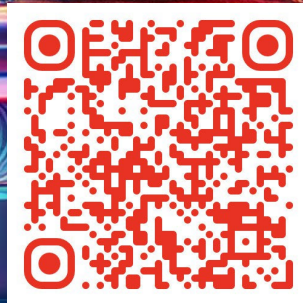

ICO Ref: ZB955413

Ways to Take Part

Choose whichever option suits you best:

- Questionnaire: 10–15 minutes (online, self-paced)

Participation is confidential, voluntary, and fully anonymised.

Scan Here: From Poster Tradition to Poster Technology

Fairness in law, means Fairness in Mind!